but our insider tips
will help ensure your next move is as seamless as possible.*

Our favorite professional tips — revealed.

EDIT beforehand if at all possible.

We know you have a lot to do in preparation for your move, but even a little editing makes a major difference beforehand. Here are the key areas to prioritize that accumulate extra household items.

- Pantry — Consider tossing expired items & items you'll never actually use.
- Hallway Closets — These spaces become catchalls for excess clothing, shoes, coats and items without a proper place in the home. A quick pruning may turn up hidden gems or great items to donate.
- Garages — Set aside items such as paint or extra cabinet shelves you plan to leave with the home. Look for long-forgotten sporting goods or other large items you no longer need which could be given away, sold or donated.

Gather items to DONATE or SELL

Let's face it, not everything we own is still useful or still wanted. Moving is a GREAT opportunity to let go of items you no longer love (or maybe never did) and give them a new home. We promise, you won't appreciate them more in your new home. Let them go to make room for new things and fresh start in your next residence.

Set aside the ESSENTIALS

If you are moving further than across town, you'll most likely want to pack a suitcase with your essentials. Gather up your favorite toiletries and other personal items prior to the arrival of your movers. Having these items tucked in a suitcase allows you to relax as the team packs up the rest of your home.

Consider the SCHEDULE

Closing on a new home? Carefully consider your moving day schedule. Closings can take longer than anticipated or even rescheduled. We often advise our clients to consider adding a “buffer day” to create space for unexpected events and delays.

Be mindful of OVERLAPPING services

Painters putting on a fresh coat? New flooring? Schedule these BEFORE your move-in date if possible. This allows your movers to place your furniture exactly as you want it in each room without needing to move it again. For services like ours, having those services complete allows us to hang your art, mount TVs & fully organize the home.

RESIST the urge to pack

When you hire a full-service moving company, you can invest your time doing what you love — which is probably not packing. Our team professionally packs the entire home for you — from fine china to art — ensuring everything is perfectly protected & safe.

RELAX and let your team do the work!

This is our favorite! Moving creates a lot of change and can be a great time to hit refresh. Embrace this opportunity to enjoy the service of the professionals you've hired to make your move seamless and as easy as possible. Ensure the company you select provides the services you value most so you can begin enjoying your new residence immediately.
